A part of the original Presidio of Santa Barbara, built in 1782 by the soldiers under command of Captain Jose Francisco Ortega, the first Commandante. The Presidio was founded by Padre Junipero Serra, who dedicated the spot where it was built on Saint Barbara's Day, April 21st, 1782. This particular building was one of a number of soldier's living quarters. A portion of the building was destroyed when modern streets were built.

The building is now privately owned by Mr. H. W. Ross and is in good condition, being used as a studio.
